

Special “Eye” to Watch: Cris Worley Fine Arts Opens with a Flourish!

The extension of the Dragon Street Gallery District on Monitor Street (off of Wycliff) is a brand new, stunning gallery opening September 9 run by Cris Worley, full of charm, good looks, intelligence and connections to some of the most exciting Texas talent. No telling where her artistic “eye” will carry her way beyond the blue horizon. Cris is well remembered as the director of Pan American’s past local branch where she worked with some of the artists she represents. Two of her gifted artists in the opening group show “Epic, Epoch” on view until October 16 are below. Two other artists, Rusty Scruby and Ludwig Schwarz are very familiar to local art enthusiasts.

Incidentally, Galerie Urbane run by Ree Willaford, a relative newcomer to Dallas with a well-respected gallery on Main Street in Marfa is under the same roof with Cris. While run totally separately these two spaces offer a double treat for gallery browsing!

- June Mattingly

cris worley

FINE ARTS

1415 Slocum Street #104

Dallas, Texas 75207

p: 214.745.1415 // f: 214.745.1417

crisworley.com